FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: April 25, 2007

John J. Matteo & Mackenzie P. McNaughton to Teach “Legal and Tax Issues for Small Companies” in 2007 Small Business Academy Series at Greater Washington Board of Trade

Looking to grow your small business? The Small Business Academy is the Greater Washington Board of Trade’s premier program for equipping entrepreneurs with tools to take their businesses to the next level. Over a six month period, entrepreneurs learn, discuss, and connect with peers through an interactive course designed for local business owners. The Academy Modules are two afternoons per month from May, 2007 to November, 2007.

This year, John J. Matteo, Chair of the Business Law Practice Group, and Mackenzie P. McNaughton, Associate in the Business Law Practice Group, will spearhead the September sessions that focus on “Legal and Tax Issues for Small Companies.”

The Academy is open to business owners only with at least one year experience, and whose business is located in Greater Washington. Please visit www.bot.org for more information on criteria for Academy applicants.

Cost: $150 for members; $400 for non-members.

Deadline for application: April 30. Space is limited.

To learn more and download an application, visit www.bot.org or contact Nicole Tarnogursky at 202.857.5940 or NicoleTarnogursky@bot.org.
